ALS-216 Wireless Assistive Listening System

The COMTEK ALS-216 Assistive Listening System is a one-way communication system offering perfect speech clarity over long distances. The speaker wears a personal M-216 transmitter and lapel microphone. The listener wears a PR-216 personal receiver and earphone. The listener can be as far away as 300 ft from the speaker and still hear every word with total clarity. This system functions as a remote microphone for the listener overcoming difficult listening challenges of distance between listener and speaker, background noise, and room reverberations. In addition, its rugged construction ensures long-lasting durability in even the most demanding environments.
